Evaluations

Being a designer

The most difficult part of my process was figuring out what information needed to be included in each page of the website and how to create the feel the client wanted for her website. Going through all the steps from discovery to mapping, wireframing, and style tiling, helped me get to the final product.

Being a Client

This much easier than being the designer. I knew what color theme and feel for my website and discussed it with my designer. My designer was very easy to communicate with and made the whole process very smooth. The suggestions she made also helped create a more clear idea of how my website was going to look.
