

Discovery Statement

Elements that will make up most host page will a picture of my identity, the MCC logo, a summary about what the page is about, and a statement about myself. What will be emphasized in my host page will be my hierarchy and work, with background motions. My favorite thing about my template is the way is the story it tells based off the way it was designed, and how easily I can change it to make it my own. I kept the structure almost exactly the same, and resized my photos and background loops accordingly. The navigation on my host page is easy to use and is cohesive with the rest of my site. The template was made responsive. I really like how all the content stacks when bending and warping the web browser. Colors of blues, and purples usually slip into my designs but I take pride in my logo and tend to use a color palette similar to that. My host page is a designed page about me with all of my work from Design for the Web 3 I have completed and all the lessons and principles I have learned and applied into each recipe on my host page. It will be designed accordingly with my style tile as a reference. It will feature animated backgrounds to add life to the page without drawing the users away from what's really important, the content.

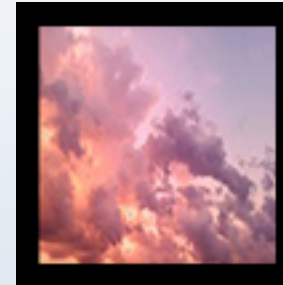

Content Item

Content Item:	Content Type:
My Name	Bold Type, found in the header, with MCC logo and quote
Course Name	Side by side with header
My Statement	Paragraph in header
My Identity	Personal image of myself
MCC Logo	Under paragraph corresponding to color palette
Project Boxes	Home Page contains 1 landscape box, About Page contains 2 portrait side by side boxes. My Work Page contains 1 landscape box of text followed up by 10 small boxes containing screenshots and linked to my work.
Project Identification	Screenshots of content related to the topic so they won't be the exact same elements but same concept leading to the surprise.
Animated Graphics	In background on each page giving life to the page.
